TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 16, 1864.

Anxious about the Constitution.

The Northern allies of secession, according to their voluble professions, are the sole guardians of the sacred charter of national rights. They opposed any attempt to coerce a rebellious State, because like the dilapidated and abandoned old "public functionary," they can find no authority in the Constitution, which justifies the Government in trying to save itself from destruction. They object to the arrest of traitors, because it is the Constitutional right of citizens to pull down and destroy by every means in their power, the country, to which they owe allegiance! They resist the emancipation of the slaves of rebels in arms against the Government, and the enlistment of colored men, because it is unconstitutional by so doing to weaken the power of the enemy, to deprive him of his agencies of wicked insurrection, and by using these very agents on the side of justice and right to strengthen the majesty of the Government in its conflict with infamous treason! In fact, if we yield to the suggestions of these profound worshipers of the Constitution, we shall be led to act as though it had no force except to shield traitors while they plot conspiracies, and to protect them in deeds of unexampled crime. Their pretended admiration for the great instrument, which guarantees national life and prosperity, reaches only to the welfare of the rebels with whom they ardently sympathize. Beyond this, it is all a sham and a fraud. It is a device to cheat the people, and a base and vile way to engender hostility to the Administration and its measures for the successful prosecution of the war. Indeed it would not matter how it was managed, they would still complain that it was conducted in an unconstitutional manner. [illegible] is that the rebellion may succeed, and of course, they oppose every measure which seems likely to thwart their wishes and purpose. If our glorious Constitution had no better defenders than they, it would long ago have been scattered to the winds as vain and idle words, made to cheat popular liberty and human rights.

Despair of the Rebels.—Every mail brings fuller and more convincing proof of the desperate condition of the rebel conspirators. Their [illegible] pride seems to have left them. Nothing is now left but a sullen obstinacy which [illegible] them on in their mad infatuation, [illegible] utter and hopeless ruin. The Richmond [illegible] a late number, says:

> [illegible] for offensive military operations [illegible] the Southern army. Beyond [illegible] portions of our territory, the [illegible] to risk nothing. Our means of [illegible] exhausted to admit of any [illegible] that have become with [illegible] arance. The duration [illegible] of continued supply [illegible] army. The South can [illegible] eleventh hour the [illegible] food and clothing [illegible] Government to pro[illegible] not provided, [illegible] sistance with [illegible] ons, the strat[illegible] of contempti[illegible] it be, with the [illegible] South can hold [illegible] provided she don't go mad."

[illegible] e mad, and is now in a paroxysm of [illegible] and empty rage. In such a con[illegible] long resistance to the power of the [illegible], now magnified by new levies, [illegible] th and determination unabated, is [illegible]. The time has come, we believe, [illegible] strong, rapid and decisive blows, and we rejoice that the Administration will soon be fully prepared to smite treason in its strongholds so sharply and so terribly, that it cannot escape the fatal stroke. Mercy to both sections and economy of loyal blood and treasure alike dictate the most earnest and forcible action against the rebellion. While it is fainting and quivering in despair, let the leaden rain and iron hail of just and patriotic vengeance be poured out upon it with a weight that shall crush it to powder, and sink it to eternal and infamous destruction.

Just so!—A Democratic paper, in denouncing the President's last proclamation, says:

> "So we go! This war was started in deception, and it has been kept alive by lying."

That is the exact truth in two lines. The Southern leaders begun the war by deceiving their people and have "kept it alive" by the most infamous lies ever uttered by human tongues, mortgaged to the service of Satan. When they stop lying, and the people understand how grossly and wickedly they have been imposed upon, the war will stop: till then they may be sure it will not, while a rebel dares to oppose the power of the Government, or to raise his impious hand against the best civil institutions ever devised by human wisdom.

Where do they Belong?—The Post Master wishes to inform the proper officer of the Grand Division of the S. of T. that a large package of newly printed Constitutions is in the office here; the wrapper was so frail, that it came off, and the address is lost.

The three men—Daily, McDowell and Buckley—reported yesterday in our special dispatches as lynched, were hung in Aurora, Nevada.

How Editors do Things.—The Baltimore American publishes the following reply from J. A. Cowardin, the estimable proprietor of the Richmond Dispatch, to a recent note of Charles C. Fulton, requesting the former to act as almoner of the fund sent from the American office for the relief of the Union prisoners in Richmond:

REPLY OF COWARDIN.

RICHMOND, December 11, 1863.

C. C. Fulton—Dear Sir: Through the hands of Captain Hatch, of the Exchange Bureau, I received the remittance of two thousand dollars "for the relief of prisoners now in Richmond, attached to Maryland regiments," intrusted to me by you to dispose of, in pursuance of the intention thus explained in your letter. I proceeded at once to comply with your request, but this letter has been delayed by circumstances engrossing my time and care.

Upon consultation with officers having the prisoners in charge, I came to the conclusion that it would be most consistent with your benevolent purpose to distribute the fund sent among the non-commissioned officers and privates, as the commissioned officers were understood to be better off, and generally to be the objects of special solicitude and assistance. I found that there were in confinement here three hundred and seventy non-commissioned officers and privates, a list of all of whom was made out for me under orders from Captain Turner.

In obedience to orders from the department, none but Confederate money is allowed to be distributed on Belle Isle, where the Maryland prisoners are placed, an order deemed necessary to prevent speculating upon the prisoners by those who have the opportunity. I therefore had to convert the money sent by you into Confederate notes. The sum yielded by this exchange was $5,500, getting two and three quarters for one, the highest premium paid on the day of exchange. This sum gave $14 68 and a fraction to each of the 370.

Upon considering the question of what way this share should be handed to each, I saw none so feasible as giving the money itself. The United States Government was distributing clothing and blankets among them, and they seemed to want nothing that I could obtain for them so well as they could for themselves, as a sutler's store was going immediately into operation, where they would be allowed to buy at prices restricted by the Government at ten per cent. profit to the sutler.

The men were mustered near the commander's tent, and I informed them of your remittance, who had sent it, and how much each man was entitled to. I further informed them that this sum would be handed to the first sergeants of the companies, and they would distribute it among them. There were fifteen sergeants. To fourteen I gave $365, making $5,110; to one I gave $300.

I hope this mode of distribution meets your approbation. I could devise none more practicable or likely to give more satisfaction to the men.

Your nephew, Kimberly, I found and tendered him my services in any way I could aid him. He thanked me and said he wanted nothing then, save some paper to write a letter or two, which I conveyed to him. I told him I would write to you in a day or so, and to let me know if I could assist him. He is looking very well.

I learn from the officer and the Surgeon having charge of the prisoners, that the hitch in the exchange of prisoners has had a most painful effect upon the Federal soldiers confined here, having occasioned in the sick a despondency that has fearfully increased the mortality among them. This is strikingly illustrated at Belle Isle, where of sixty-five deaths in five months only one occurred in three! At the end of these three the exchange of prisoners was broken up, and the effect was [illegible] to the Federal prisoners here, and I suppose also to the Confederates confined at the North. I do not propose to discuss any questions of the war with you, as that would be altogether improper in this letter; but I may say that the consequences of the interruption of the exchange of prisoners have been such as to make that act cruel and inhuman.

I take occasion to say, sir, that I have had some opportunity of observing the life at the prisons, and that I have not a doubt that the Federal prisoners here fare equally as well as our own soldiers. If both have not the fullest rations, they have the best that the nature of the invasive war now raging against the South admits of. But, it is proper farther to say, that the quantity and quality of this food is such that it does not impair health. Our men look remarkably well, and so do yours, who are not sick and sinking under the pining and despondency of hopeless imprisonment.

You have done me the honor, my dear sir, to make me the almoner of your benefaction for reasons very complimentary to myself; and I am sure you will receive these statements as made in sincerity and truth.

It is but just to add that Colonel Ould, Brigadier General Winder, Captain Turner and Lieutenant Boissoux (commander of the island), afforded every facility for the distribution of the money sent by you. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. COWARDIN.

Gen. Meade's Policy.—Gen. Meade wrote a letter to a friend in New Jersey immediately previous to his late movement across the Rapidan, in which occurs the following paragraph:

"I am fully aware of the great anxiety in the public mind that something should be done. I am in receipt of many letters, from some persons in high positions, telling me I had better have my army destroyed, and the country filled up with the bodies of the soldiers, than remain inactive. While I do not suffer myself to be influenced by such communications, I am, and have been most anxious to effect something; but I am determined, at every hazard, not to attempt anything unless my judgment indicates a probability of accomplishing some object commensurate with the destruction of life necessarily involved. I would rather a thousand times be relieved, charged with tardiness or incompetency, than have my conscience burdened with a wanton slaughter, uselessly, of brave men, or with having jeopardized the great cause by doing what I thought was wrong."

The Albany Democrat.—John H. Hackleman has become the publisher of the above sheet, and in saluting his readers, tells them some things that sound very wise, and some otherwise. Among the former is the solemn and entirely truthful declaration that "money is necessary to meet the expenses of his paper"—and all the bosh about the Democratic party being true to the Union—the Administration being despotic and so forth and so on, is most decidedly otherwise. Nevertheless, good luck to you, Mr. H., in everything but your politics. Go ahead—be virtuous and you will be happy! Be patriotic and you will prosper.

The Universal Statement.—In a letter lately received by a Southern lady from one of her relations in Alabama there is this passage: "You can little imagine the condition of things here. I am writing in a gown I have turned twice; and although we have enough to eat, yet it is not what we like. Our farm is being neglected, and there is great fear that our slaves will rise. Even old nurse says she thinks that Jeff Davis is a bad man, and has ruined both slaves and whites. One of those things issued by Yankee Lincoln for $5 is worth $40 of our Confederate scrip. This makes James feel bad. He had to pay $7,200 for a substitute, and now he has to provide another for Charley. We are well-nigh ruined."

Effects of Mormonism.—Among the Mormons, after years' practice of polygamy, a physiological inferiority among the people will strike the most casual observer. The commonest form of this, and perhaps the first that develops itself is a certain feebleness and emaciation of the person, while the countenances of almost all are stamped with a mingled air of imbecility and brutal ferocity.

DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN, VIA JACKSONVILLE AND [illegible] CITY.

Dates to February 8th.

All Newspapers in the South to be Suspended and the Men conscripted.

NEWS FROM CHARLESTON.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

An Attempt to Surprise Richmond.

Gen. Butler's Forces make a Raid to within ten miles of Richmond.

A Deserter gives information to the Enemy and the Raid Fails.

The Rebel Armies said to be Larger than ever.

ANOTHER EXPEDITION FITTING OUT ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The Richmond Enquirer of the 6th, says the Confederate Congress has got into a pet with the newspaper men, and will conscript all under 45 years of age—deeming it necessary to suspend all papers except such as are required to do the public printing. There are now 55 papers published in the Confederacy.

Commissioner Ould desires to exchange all prisoners, both soldiers and civilians, received at Craig's Point before the 1st of January, and all officers and men of the Vicksburg capture, who reported at Enterprise, Miss., prior to Nov. 1st 1863, and all officers and men of the Vicksburg capture belonging to the 1st Tenn. Cavalry.

Fortress Monroe, Feb. 8.—The Richmond Examiner of to-day has the following:

Charleston, Feb. 6.—The enemy fired eight shells into the city to-day. They have been hauling ammunition to Gregg and the Cumming's Point batteries.

There was a large fire on Folly Island to-day, supposed to have been caused by the burning of a Yankee hospital.

A gunboat in the Edisto river is lying high and dry, and it is believed that she will be destroyed.

Charleston, Feb. 7th.—The enemy have ceased firing on the city, but are working on the batteries.

Washington, Feb. 9th.—The President approves and will sign the joint resolution on confiscation which passed the House and will no doubt pass the Senate.

A caucus of the Union members of both Houses of Congress was held last night at the Capitol.

Senator Clark, of New Hampshire, was chosen as President of the caucus.

It was adopted as the sense of the meeting that instructions be sent to the National Republican Committee to fill such vacancies as may exist in consequence of former members being sent abroad or on duty in the field.

A number of Governors of States have arrived, and others are expected.

It is understood they are here for the purpose of having a conference with the authorities upon refilling regiments, and recruiting under the new order for a half a million of men. The House to-day, by a vote of 87 to 14, voted that the members from Louisiana are not entitled to seats.

New York, Feb. 9th.—The papers contain full particulars of the late reconnoissance over the Rapidan, but give little additional information. The 14th corps suffered heavily.

The Tribune's dispatch says Gen. Kilpatrick's reconnoissance was successful. The enemy occupy the country east of Mine Run. Parties of Cavalry were seen; they all belonged to Hampton's Legion, which is stationed at Fredericksburg. More than half of the pickets have no shelter, and are seldom relieved, and are compelled to walk two or three miles to their post of duty.

The Times' dispatch says it is ascertained that the main body of Lee's army is between Gordonsville and Orange Court House. Citizens residing within our lines say Lee expected to have 40,000 men added to his army by the new levy, increasing it to 80 or 90,000 men.

Fortress Monroe, Feb. 9.—The expedition having returned, we are in possession of the following facts:

On Friday morning (6th) Gen. Butler's forces under the command of Brig. General Wister, marched from Yorktown to Kent Court House. The cavalry arrived at 12 A.M., at Dalton, on the Chickahominy ten miles from Richmond, for the purpose of making a raid into Richmond, and endeavoring, by surprise to liberate our prisoners. The cavalry reached the bridge at the time appointed, marching 47 miles in 16½ hours.

A force of infantry followed for the purpose of supporting them. It was expected to surprise the enemy at Bottom bridge, they having for some time but a small picket force there.

The surprise failed, because, as the Richmond Examiner of to-day says: "A Yankee deserter gave information of the intended movement on Richmond."

The enemy had fallen a large amount of timber so as to block up the roads and make them impassable for our Cavalry. After having remained at the bridge two hours Gen. Wester joined them with infantry. The whole chance for a surprise having been defeated, Gen. Wester returned to Williamsburg.

On the march to new Kent Court House his rear was attacked by the enemy. They were repulsed without loss to us.

A march of eighty miles was made by the infantry in 58 hours. The cavalry marched over 100 miles in 50 hours.

This shows that it is impossible to make an attack in Virginia in the winter. A dispatch boat just in from Newbern, N. C. Gen. Palmer's plans are going on well. The loss by us is too trifling to mention. We could not have desired a better result. Our losses in killed, wounded and missing is small.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A Cairo letter says another naval expedition is on the tapis. Gen. Porter is very active in hurrying up the completion of the gunboats on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and is putting the squadron on a formidable war footing. There is great activity at Mound City, Cairo and other naval depots. Workmen in the yards are employed night and day, in order to have boats ready at the appointed time. The fleet will remain at Memphis and be ready, it is thought, to start some time in March. The correspondent predicts that the expedition will go up the Red River, to co-operate with military movements in Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana.

New York, Feb. 9.—A Newbern letter to the Tribune, dated Feb. 4th, says: Deserters from a North Carolina regiment report that Gen. Clinton was slightly wounded by a shell. They report 1,500 men with 11 pieces of artillery in our front. He thinks they have gone to Little Washington, and says they supposed we had only two regiments there.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Accounts from the South state that the rebel armies to-day number more men than at any period since the commencement of the war, the conscription having been so rigorously enforced. Military authorities here believe that before spring much of the advantage gained during the past 12 months must needs be lost by the evacuation of territory which we have not sufficient troops to garrison.

An officer just arrived from Grant's headquarters says that all through the country to the rear of the enemy's line an officer can ride unmolested to any point on the Mississippi.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—An officer from Knoxville reports that considerable reinforcements have reached the enemy within the last week.

Second Dispatch.

REBEL ACCOUNT OF THE FIGHT NEAR NEWBERN, N.C.

The Rebels discover a Plot to release Union Prisoners and Assassinate Jeff Davis.

GOLD, 160.

Chicago, Feb. 10th.—The Richmond Sentinel, of Monday, referring to the movements in North Carolina says: "Our army has fallen back to within 10 miles of Newbern, where they have fortifications so strong that they could not be taken without great loss. Official reports from Gen. Pickett, who commanded the expedition, says he made a reconnoissance to within one and a half miles of Newbern, and met the enemy in force at Bachelder creek. The enemy lost in killed and wounded about 100 cavalry and 12 officers. We took 200 prisoners, 3,000 stands of arms and quantities of clothing, provisions, &c. Our loss was 30 killed and wounded."

The Sentinel also says: The Government has for some time past been in possession of facts which place beyond any doubt the existence of a secret organization of disloyal persons, having for its object the release of the Yankee prisoners, the assassination of the President and the destruction of Government buildings.

New York, Feb. 10.—The House yesterday refused to strike out a clause in the enrollment bill, consolidating classes, by a vote of 45 to 60.

Senator Sherman introduced a bill to-day to prevent speculation or traffic in gold and making all time rules payable in specie or foreign exchange. Partial payments thereon can be reclaimed by suit. It is made the duty of the District Attorney to prosecute such suits—the money reclaimed going in equal parts to the informer and District Attorney. Drafts not payable at sight, given in such transactions, made void excepting when passed into the hands of a third person. But the person making the sale may at any time within a year bring suit for the recovery of the full amount from the person to whom it was made.

New York, Feb. 10.—Gold, 160.

Sacramento, Feb. 10.—In the Senate to-day, the Special Contract repeal bill was discussed from 12 till 4 o'clock P. M., and defeated by a vote of 14 to 24. Notice of a reconsideration was given. All the Democrats voted no.

San Francisco, Feb. 10.—Recent arrivals of blasting powder have reduced the price to $7 per keg.

A fire to-day burned into the floor of Towne & Bacon's printing office, but was discovered in time to prevent a conflagration.

Steamers Oregon from Portland, and Moses Taylor from Panama, arrived to-day. Also, the clipper ship Brewster from Boston.

The Moses Taylor brings 6,000 kegs of blasting powder, which, with the 1,000 kegs per Moonlight, are the cause of the decline.

LATEST.

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

New York, Feb. 10.—Refugees from the South say, that Atlanta, Georgia, will be destroyed rather than allowed to fall into the hands of Gen. Grant, who is expected to move on it in the spring.

A Leavenworth dispatch says Johnson's resolution for Senatorial election to-day, passed both houses under rule. Protests also begin to come in from every county in the State indignation meetings are being held. The people will vote it down by an overwhelming majority at the first State election.

Newbern, Feb. 5.—Large number of deserters have arrived since yesterday. They report that rebel Gen. Pickett has the command of 5,000 men, and that there was but 2,000 Union soldiers at Newbern and he intends to take them by a night assault.

California News.

San Francisco, Feb. 11.—Dan Coulton, formerly a hotel coach driver, and Thomas Chandler were arrested this afternoon for conspiracy against a young lady who arrived from the East on the last steamer. The girl has a brother who wrote her directions to come to a certain hotel. When the steamer arrived at the wharf Coulton approached the girl under the pretence of taking her to the hotel, when he carried her to a house of ill fame and left her there. Upon ascertaining the character of the house, she demanded to be shown to a hotel which was complied with and the girl escaped. Chandler is charged as an accomplice. The police made a number of arrests before finding the right parties. As the lady is highly respectable, a private examination will be accorded. The name is suppressed.

Mexican Intelligence.

Private information, from Mexican sources, says that on the 27th ult. Gen. Negrolo attacked a force garrisoned at San Louis Potosi, but was compelled to retreat with a loss of 2,000. On the 3d January he formed a junction with Gen. Monzales and on the 15th took the place by assault. After a severe fight of over four hours the garrison was captured with a large amount of arms and ammunition. General Mega and staff report that the French took the Mexican trans-commissioned and non-commissioned officers and publicly shot them.

They were in possession of the city at last advices and had been joined by Juarez, and the force was daily augmented with fresh forces.

It was supposed that President Juarez would go to Saltillo and there establish a seat of Government.

Since the defeat of Miramon, who had occupied the position on the road between Guadalajara and the City of Mexico, he had marched from Guadalajara with the most of his forces, towards the City of Mexico, leaving a force of 2,000 men to garrison Guadalajara.

Gen. Nengua, the Mexican general who, with a force of 9,000 men, was on the road between Guadalajara and Coloma, had advanced to attack the Fort and there were rumors that the garrison had left the City, and Nengua had taken possession of it.

It has been positively ascertained that Gen. Bazaine had sent to Gen. Ostaja Dolado orders to hold a conference for the purpose of settling all difficulty between the French and Mexicans.

A reply was sent by Dolado, to the effect that he could not, without lowering the dignity of the Nationality of his country, hold any conference with any party who, by force of arms was endeavoring to subjugate a free people, and that the French had violated their word in every instance since they first landed on the soil of Mexico. Also, that they are now endeavoring to place a force among them which would enable France to govern free and independent people by order of French Commanders in the City of Mexico.

A Live Yankee Venture.—The New York correspondent of the Union, in a recent letter, tells the following:

Ocean commerce, they say, has fled to British bottoms. What if it has? Are the captains, supercargoes and crews all British? Here and there an old salt whose competence was made and securely planted in real estate years ago, and who had long meditated retirement for life, seeing that under the war his risks have become greater and his profits smaller than they were in his earlier days, has bidden the ocean adieu and betaken himself to the plow. But some younger man has taken his place, and if there is one veteran navigator less there is in his stead one more ardent novice on Neptune's domain, and that novice, though walking a deck over which float's the cross of St. George, is quite as likely to be an American as though the stars and stripes were streaming aloft. Here is the brief story of a tyro on the ocean wave. Two months or more ago a young New York merchant, who has courted fickle Fortune in many branches of trade and always been jilted, chartered a British brig, loaded her with flour which he purchased on favorable terms and whisky that he bought at a bargain in Bourbon county, Kentucky, and sailed for St. John, New Brunswick. There he exchanged his flour and whisky for a cargo of lumber and shooks, and with these put out under the British flag for Porto Rico, which port he probably reached some time since. At Porto Rico he sells lumber and shooks and takes sugar and molasses and comes to this port, and here turns sugar and molasses into whisky and flour, and again pushes off for St. John, where he will sell for gold. He will take the brig hither in ballast, and turn his gold into treasury notes, hoping to realize from his four months' venture not only the benefits that are to be derived from an ordinary Winter voyage to the tropics, but the altogether unobjectionable addition of $2,500 to his working capital as well. "All very fine on paper," says the reader. But when a cargo of whisky and flour will command in New Brunswick as large a cargo as ever of lumber and staves; when the lumber worth $9 per thousand in St. John sells readily in Porto Rico at $25, payment being made in molasses, at eighteen cents a gallon; and when this cargo brings seventy cents in New York, and the product of the sale is again invested in flour and whisky that are sold for specie in St. John, what can hinder the venturer from "accumulating a pile" of treasury notes on his return to New York? This is a Yankee manner of turning everything to account. A physician imperatively orders a Southern voyage; the patient makes the voyage both physically and pecuniarily profitable; and if he encounters no disaster he may become wedded to a "life on the sounding sea."

It is a curious fact that in sacred history, the age, death and burial of only one woman, Sarah, the wife of Abraham, is noted. Women's age ever since appears not to have been a subject for history or discussion.

JURY TRIALS.—In the case of Dr. Noble, lately tried in the Circuit Court, in this city, the testimony was somewhat conflicting, and the jury after being out a short time, found themselves six for acquittal, and six for conviction of assault. Not wishing to remain in custody long to debate the merits of the case, they came to a decision by tossing up in quarter, and unfortunately for the defendant it went against him. The members of the jury had probably heard of the case which happened in one of the "western" States, where on a trial for murder, after the jury had been out some days, standing six for acquittal and six for conviction, they agreed that two noted "seven up" players, who were on the jury, should decide the case by a game of cards, and when they stood six apiece the player in favor of acquitting turned up a Jack and won. This may be a convenient method, but does not seem like securing justice in every case.

OCCASION FOR A JUBILEE.—One of the most important benefits within the compass of a community's wants, has been conferred upon our citizens in an inexhaustible supply of clear, cold, fresh mountain water. On Saturday evening last, Messrs. Leonard & Green completed their conductors from Balch's creek and the reservoir was supplied. The main pipe, from the creek to the reservoir, is six inches in diameter, and two and a half miles long. The main pipe to First street will also be six inches, with cross-pipes, for the numbered streets and for distribution, four inches in diameter. The water will have 150 feet head on First street, so that it can be forced to the highest buildings without the aid of an engine. We congratulate these gentlemen and the public upon the success of the enterprise.

BUILDINGS.—The new frame hotel of Connor, on Front street, is rapidly approaching completion, and promises to be one of the best frame buildings in the city. At other places on Front street materials are accumulating for the erection of prominent buildings, which, in addition to the large number of private residences in process of erection, ... but there will be a much greater ... buildings the ensuing season than ... during any previous season for ... past. LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—A small number of the Library Fund subscribers met last evening in response to the call of the committee. A constitution was adopted, providing for the organization of the Society, and election of Directors; the number to be ten, out of which they choose their own presiding officers. The first election determines the directors from two to ten years—two of them going out of office every two years, the terms of those first elected to be determined by drawing. The Board of Directors have the power to fill any vacancies, by resignation or otherwise, for the remainder of the term such director may have been elected for. It therefore depends on the complexion of the first Board, as to the success and efficiency of the Society, and it is desirable that the subscribers see that the proper men are elected and are willing to serve. A live, active, and efficient Board, who are conversant with the wants of such an Association, can soon satisfy the subscribers that their money is being devoted to some purpose, and a Library soon built up which will be a credit to the city. The election for ten directors is to be held on Saturday, the 20th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M., in the U. S. District Court room.

SHERIFF LADD disposed of an assortment of liquors, syrups, &c., by virtue of authority, yesterday, on Front street. The prices were very reasonable, at which they sold.

OREGON MIST.—We were yesterday treated to a "slight sprinkling" of the Oregon mist, just enough to brighten our recollections a little.

SAND.—A large load of sand, for building purposes, was "tugged" up the river yesterday, and is now being discharged on the levee at the foot of Salmon street.

LAST NIGHT was well enjoyed by the people of Portland, if were to judge by the numerous assemblages, both public and private, throughout the city.

SEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS would cover the amount of treasure brought down on the Hunt last night by Mr. West. No connection east of Walla Walla.

EVERY LADY ADMIRES the elegantly embroidered and braided cloaks and mantles which have become the rage. Many are deterred from having them from the apparent immensity of labor requisite to handsomely trim these garments, but by a GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine the task becomes a pleasure, and this excellent Machine executes in a marvelously handsome and rapid manner the most elaborate and beautiful designs.

From Annals of the Army of the Cumberland.

The Old Union Wagon.

"The Old Union Wagon," written and composed by Rev. John H. Lozes, of the 7th Indiana Volunteers, is an admirable specimen of a popular patriotic army melody. It was written at the headquarters of Gen. Negley's division, at Camp Hamilton, on the "Overton Plantation," five miles from Nashville, Tennessee. It was originally intended merely as a camp song in answer to "The Southern Wagon," which the "Secesh" Damsels are always ready to sing for the "Yankees." It was afterwards published by John Church, Jr., of Cincinnati, as sheet music, and was sung with great eclat at Pike's Opera House, at the immense Union meeting held there in respond to the resolutions sent by the Army of the Cumberland to the people of the North. It is now having a great run in the West and the army. The words are as follows:

In Uncle Sam's dominion, in eighteen sixty-one,
The fight between Secession and Union was begun;
The South declared they'd have the rights which Uncle Sam denied,
Or in their secesh wagon they'd all take a ride.
Hurrah for the wagon, the old Union wagon!
We'll stick to our wagon and all take a ride!

The makers of our wagon were men of solid wit;
They made it out of "Charter Oak," that would not rot or split;
Its wheels are of material the strongest and best,
And two are named the North and South and two the East and West.

Our wagon-bed is strong enough for any "revolution,"
In fact, 'tis the "hull" of the "old Constitution,"
Her coupling's strong, her axle's long, and, anywhere you get her,
No monarch's frown can "back her down," no traitor can upset her.

This good old Union wagon the nation all admired;
Her wheels had run for fourscore years and never once been "tired;"
Her passengers were happy, as along her way she whirl'd,
For the old Union wagon was the glory of the world.

But when old Abram took command, the South wheel got displeased,
Because the public fat was gone that kept her axle greased;
And when he gathered up the reins and started on his route,
She plunged into secession and knocked some "fellows" out!

Now, while in this secession mire the wheel was sticking slightly,
Some tory passengers got mad and cursed the driver slightly;
But Abram "couldn't see it," so he didn't heed their clatter:
"There's too much black mud on the wheel," says he, "that's what's the matter."

So Abram gave them notice that in eighteen sixty-three,
Unless the rebels "dried it up" he'd set their niggers free,
And then the man that led the van to fight against his nation
Would drop his gun, and home he'd run, to fight against starvation.

When Abram said he'd free the slaves that furnished their supplies,
It opened Northern traitors' mouths and Southern traitors' eyes.
"The slaves," said they, "will run away, if you thus rashly free them!"
But Abram "guessed perhaps they'd best go home and oversee them."

Around our Union wagon, with shoulders to the wheel,
A million soldiers rally, with hearts as true as steel;
And of all the generals, high or low, that help to save the nation,
There's none that strikes a harder blow than General Emancipation!
Hurrah for the wagon, the old Union wagon!
We'll stick to our wagon and all take a ride!

MRS. CAUDLE WANTED TO FIND OUT.—Mr. Caudle was made a Mason, and Mr. Caudle, burned, scarred, fatigued and filled with a good supper, taken at a late hour, went home with fear and trembling and endeavored to get to the back side of the bed without awakening the "God's last best gift to man," who was slumbering in front, and whom he supposed to be sleeping, but Caudle was mistaken, for as he slipped beneath the bed drapery, the lady said:

"So you are there, are you? Well, I only wish I was Queen for a day or two, I'd put an end to Freemasonry, and all such trumpery, I know."

"Now, come, Caudle, don't let's quarrel. Eh! You're not in pain, dear? What's it all about? What are you lying laughing there at? But I'm a fool to trouble my head about you."

"And you're not going to let me know the secret, eh? You mean to say you're not? Now, Caudle, you know it's a hard matter to put me in a passion—not that I care about the secret itself; no, I wouldn't give a button to know it, for it's all nonsense, I'm sure. It isn't the secret I care about, It's the slight—Mr. Caudle; it's the studied insult that a man pays to his wife when he thinks of going through the world keeping something to himself—that he won't let her know! Man and wife one? indeed! I should like to know how that can be, when a man's a Mason—when he keeps a secret that sets him and his wife apart? Ha! you men make the laws, and so you take good care to have all the best of 'em yourselves; otherwise a woman ought to [illegible] a divorce when a man becomes a Mason. When he's got a sort of corner cupboard in his heart—a secret place in his mind—that his poor wife isn't allowed to rummage! Caudle! you shan't close your eyes [illegible]—no, you shan't—unless you tell me some of it! Come; there's a good creature; there's a love. I'm sure Caudle I wouldn't refuse you anything, and you know it, or ought to know it, by this time. I only wish I had a secret! To whom should I think of telling it but to my dearest husband? I should be miserable to keep it to myself, and you know it. Now, Caudle! Was there ever such a man; I'll cry! A man, indeed! A brute!—yes, Mr. Caudle, an unfeeling, brutal creature, when you might oblige me and you won't. I'm sure I don't object to your being a Mason; not at all, Caudle; I dare say it's a very good thing; I dare say it is—it's only, only your making a secret of it that vexes me. But you'll tell me—you'll tell your own Margaret? You won't! You're a wretch! Mr. Caudle. * * * But I know why; oh, yes, I can tell. The fact is, you're ashamed to let me know what a fool they've been making of you. That's it. You, at your time of life—the father of a family. I should be ashamed of myself, Caudle. And I suppose you'll be going to what you call your lodge every night now? Lodge, indeed! Pretty place it must be, where they don't admit women. Nice going on, I dare say. Then you call one another Brethren. Brethren! I'm sure you'd relations enough, you didn't want any more. But I know what all this Masonry's about. It's only an excuse to get away from your wives and families, that you may feast and drink together, that's all. That's the secret. And to abuse women—as if they were inferior to animals, and not to be trusted. That's the secret, and nothing else. Now, Caudle, don't let us quarrel. Yes, I know you're in pain. Still, Caudle, my love; Caudle! Dearest, I say! Caudle!"

"I recollect nothing more," says Caudle, "for I had eaten a hearty supper, and somehow became oblivious."

An orator out West spreads himself in a town meeting on the subject of hydrophobia: "I have horses and cattle, I have sheep and pigs, I have a wife and children, and (rising higher as the importance of the subject deepened in his estimation) I have money out at interest, all in danger of bein' bit by these infernal dogs!"

A man getting out of an omnibus, a few days ago, made use of two rows of knees as banisters to steady himself, at which the ladies took offense, and one of them cried aloud:

"A perfect savage!"

"True," said a wag inside, "he belongs to the Paw-knee tribe."

TAKING IT COOLLY.—"Your house is on fire, sir!" said a stranger, rushing into the parlor of a sober citizen.

"Well, sir," was the answer of the latter, "to what cause am I indebted for the extraordinary interest which you take in my house?"

An Irish lad complained the other day of the harsh treatment received from his father. "He treats me," said he, mournfully, "as if I was his only son by another father and mother."

A CLEVER SELL.—A great French naturalist, historian, one of the leading members of the Zoological Society of France, was lately taking a tour in Algeria, and had occasion to call on the officer commanding the garrison there. Passing through the yard, which being a barrack was naturally crowded with soldiers, his attention was called to two Zouaves who were playing with an animal which to the learned savan was a perfect novelty. He stood and stared; it evidently belonged to the group of Rodentia, but to what class! It was neither the Mussrattus, for it has no tail; nor the Arvicola amphibius, for that certainly has no proboscis like that which the astonished professor saw in the specimen before him. He asked the Zouave, "an intelligent soldier," as he afterwards observed:

What animal is that?

Monsieur it is our trunked rat.

You find it here?

In the neighborhood, but very rarely. The natives say that they are dying out, and the breed will soon be lost.

You will sell that one, perhaps?

Ah, Monsieur, it belongs to us two. What would you? It is our little amusement. The poor soldier has but few; still Jean and myself are poor and would part with our little playfellow for 400 francs.

The Professor objected to the price—even science may be bought too dearly—but finally agreed to give 150 francs for the one rat, and 400 francs if in a week they could get him a female of the same race. He was absent for a week, came back, got his male and female rats, paid his 400 francs, christened them the class mus elephas, wrote a long paper on the discovery to a scientific body, posted his letter, and went out to spend the evening with the wife of the colonel of Zouaves who happened to "receive."

As he entered, the Colonel was telling a story to the evident delight of the company. The professor joined the circle.

Yes, said the Colonel, my fellows are the sharpest in the whole army. Would Monsieur le Professeur believe that two of them had just sold two common rats for 400?

Monsieur le Colonel is partly wrong, partly right, replied the Professor; "two rats, yes; common rats, no! They are unique, and I am the lucky purchaser."

Roars of laughter followed this confession, and it came out that the Zouaves had learned from the natives a dodge for making those curious creatures. Here is the receipt: Cut the tail off a rat, cut a slit in its nose, stick the tail—it is like budding a rose—into the skin and plaster it up, and in a week it will grow there naturally, les extrêmes se touchent, and the mus elephas is a fact—so, in this story as the poor professor knows to his cost. He dares not go to his society, as there is his "trunked rat;" if he goes down to his club, it is there also. It will be his social death. He is already known in Paris as "Ridiculosmus."

THE HUDSON RIVER.—I thank God I was born on its banks. I think it an invaluable advantage to be born and brought up in the neighborhood of a grand and noble object in nature—a river, a lake, or a mountain. We make a friendship with it; we in a manner ally ourselves to it for life. It remains an object of our pride and affection, a rallying point to call us home again after all our wanderings. "The things which we have learned in our childhood," says an old writer, "grow up with our soul and unite themselves to it." So it is with the scenes among which we have passed our early days; they influence the whole course of our thoughts and feelings, and I fancy I can trace much of what is good and pleasant in my heterogeneous compound to my own companionship with this glorious river.—Washington Irving.

The Springfield Republican tells the following rather opaque story: "The man who pays the largest personal tax in New York city lives in the same house in which he kept a store for some fifty years; he washes himself in a tin pan in the back yard, whenever he does wash at all; takes a basket and goes out to buy a little food, which a woman in the house prepares for him. He sells no goods at present, but adds to his vast wealth daily, by lending money on good security, being just as shrewd, keen, and close, as he ever was, though he is much beyond seventy years of age. Alas for the poverty of riches."

IMPORTANCE OF EMPHASIS.—A stranger from the country observing an ordinary rolling-rule on the table, took it up, and on inquiring its use, was answered, "It is a rule for counting houses." Too well-bred, as he construed politeness, to ask unnecessary questions, he turned it over and over, and up and down repeatedly, and at last, in a paroxysm of baffled curiosity, inquired, "How, in the name of wonder, do you count houses with this?"

An Indianapolis editor attending church last Sabbath, for the first time in many years, stopped at the entrance, and looking in vain for the bell-pull, deliberately knocked at the door, and politely waited until somebody opened it and let him in.

Cathartic Pills

(SUGAR COATED,)

ARE MADE TO

CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE

Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.

FOR THE CURE OF

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1,

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing. Yours with great respect,

ED. W. PREBLE, Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D.C., 7 Feb.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours,

ALONZO BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 15,

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here. GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

Indigestion and Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24,

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.
